THE "CITY AND COUNTRY COTTAGE COMPANY."—This building company completed its organization yesterday by the election of the following persons as officers:—President, Alexander F. Hazard, Esq.; Treasurer, Joseph Singerly, Baq.; Directors, Alexander F. Hazard, Joseph Singerly, Joseph B. Thornton, A. W.
Band, N. F. Campion, Charles M. Hall.

It is understood that this Company have secured the Van Pett estate, recently purchased by Joseph Singerly, Esq., contaming over one hundred acres. This property was the site of Camp Cadwalader, and is situated north of Columbia avenue, and extends to Islington lane, and bounded on the east by Seventeenth street, and running west to Bidge avenue. It has a and running west to Bidge avenue. It has a beautiful elevation and perfect surface drainage. and immediately adjoins the Gratz estate. The Company expect to have two hundred to three hundred houses, of various sizes, under contract this year. The street improvements have been progressing for some time, and Twenty-second-street from Columbia avenue to Islington lane has been curbed, preparatory to being paved and otherwise improved. and otherwise improved.

TAX RATE FOR 1868 .- Now that the Assessors are assessing real estate at its market value, the taxpayers are much exercised in reference to the rate of tax to be fixed for 1868. We under-stand that enough is known of the result of the assessment to insure that the full rate will not be more than $1.50 on the $100.

FATAL ACCIDENT .- Marcus Bakins, aged nine years, was instantly killed last evening by a hoisting machine failing on him at a cotton mill, corner of Columbia avenue and German-

A Useful Invention—Hot Cast PorceLain.—It is always gratifying to herald the introduction of any improvement, invention, or innovation that is calculated to prove of benefit or advantage to the community at large; and acting under that idea, it gives us pleasure to make mention of a late invention, which will prove of incalculable benefit to society in general, and be a source of great remuneration to those directly connected with it.

We allude to a new and very important material that has lately made its appearance in the market, called "Hot Cast Porcelain," and ere the lapse of any considerable period of time its merits will be universally recognized, and it will be very generally used for the purposes for which it is intended. A USEFUL INVENTION-HOT CAST PORCEwhich it is intended.

which it is intended,
Hot Cast Porceiain is an American invention, protected by letters-patent in the New and Old Worlds, and will ultimately succeed all kinds of porcelain now in use. Its superior qualities are manifold, and its principal virtues consist in strength, beauty, cheapness, polish, phability, and an adaptedness for almost any purpose connected with the manufacture of porceiain, whins, and kindred ware.

chins, and kindred ware,

The materials of which it is composed are obtained at little cost, and it is as easily worked as glass. Its durability and resistance to acids, cold, heat, and other; destructive agencies, have been put to the severest test, and the result has been satisfactory in the extreme. It would be impossible in the limits of a notice like this to make mention of a tithe of the articles of ornament and use to which it can be applied, but suffice it to say that it is equally efficacious in the making of a massive column for a first-class bank building, as an ornament for a lady's hair or lace collar. Hot Cast Porcelain has lately, received the attention of a large number of prominent and practical gentlemen of this city, New York, and elsewhere, and the result is that a company to engage in its manufacture into an infinite variety of articles has been formed, and it is contemplated to carry on the formed, and it is contemplated to carry on the enterprise on a very extensive scale.

A manufactory has been established on Chesnut street, near Thirty-first, where a number of workmen are at present engaged in working the new material, and the establishment in question is well worth a visit. A large storeroom, containing finished articles of every conceivable kind, tiles and floorings, vases, boquet holders, door-plates, photographic piates, cups and saucers, dishes, telegraph insulators, weights, stands, gas-light shades, and hundreds of other articles, can be seen; all of the most beautiful finish and appearance, and manufactured at greatly less cost than common porcetured at greatly less cost than common porce

Among those who have given Hot Cast Porcelain the benefit of their attention are the ceiain the benefit of their attention are the following well-known gentlemen, and they take an active interest in its advancement:—Messrs.
John McArthur, Jr., Samuel F. Fisher, Colonel

NORSFOLK, VA., MAY 27, 1867.

Mesers, FARREL, HERRING & CO., Philadelphia:— Gentlemen—On the 6th instant the large Four-Story Iron-Iront Warehouse, then occupied by us as a first class Liquor Store, was entirely destroyed by fife, and although the heat was intense, all our Papers, Books and Accounts were preserved in good order in one of your Sales.

The Sale, however, is not fit for use again; therefore we desire to get another from you, provided you will allow us something for the one we now have. None of the Iron work is broken from the Sale, but the sides are puffed out, knob broken off, and it is steamed inside; otherwise we believe it all right. We have had an experienced mechanic to examise it, and he gave it as bis opinion that the Sale, as it now is, will not be reliable in another fire; but that, under the bands of Sale manufacturers, it can be made good again; and he suggested the idea to us that you might allow us something for it, in our purchase of a new one. The Sale is a small one, and was purchased from you by Mr. William Johnson, formerly liquor dealer in this city, from whom we purchased it. The key is numbered 2017. Let us hear from you.

Very respectfully, your obedient servants.
